An oil pumpjack (jack-o'-lantern) is shown in silhouette against a cloudy sky. The structure is a large metal frame with a long arm that pivots up and down, connected to a vertical rod that goes into the ground. The background is a flat, arid landscape.

A dark, almost black background is densely populated with small, glowing white and yellow particles of various sizes, representing microplastic pollution.

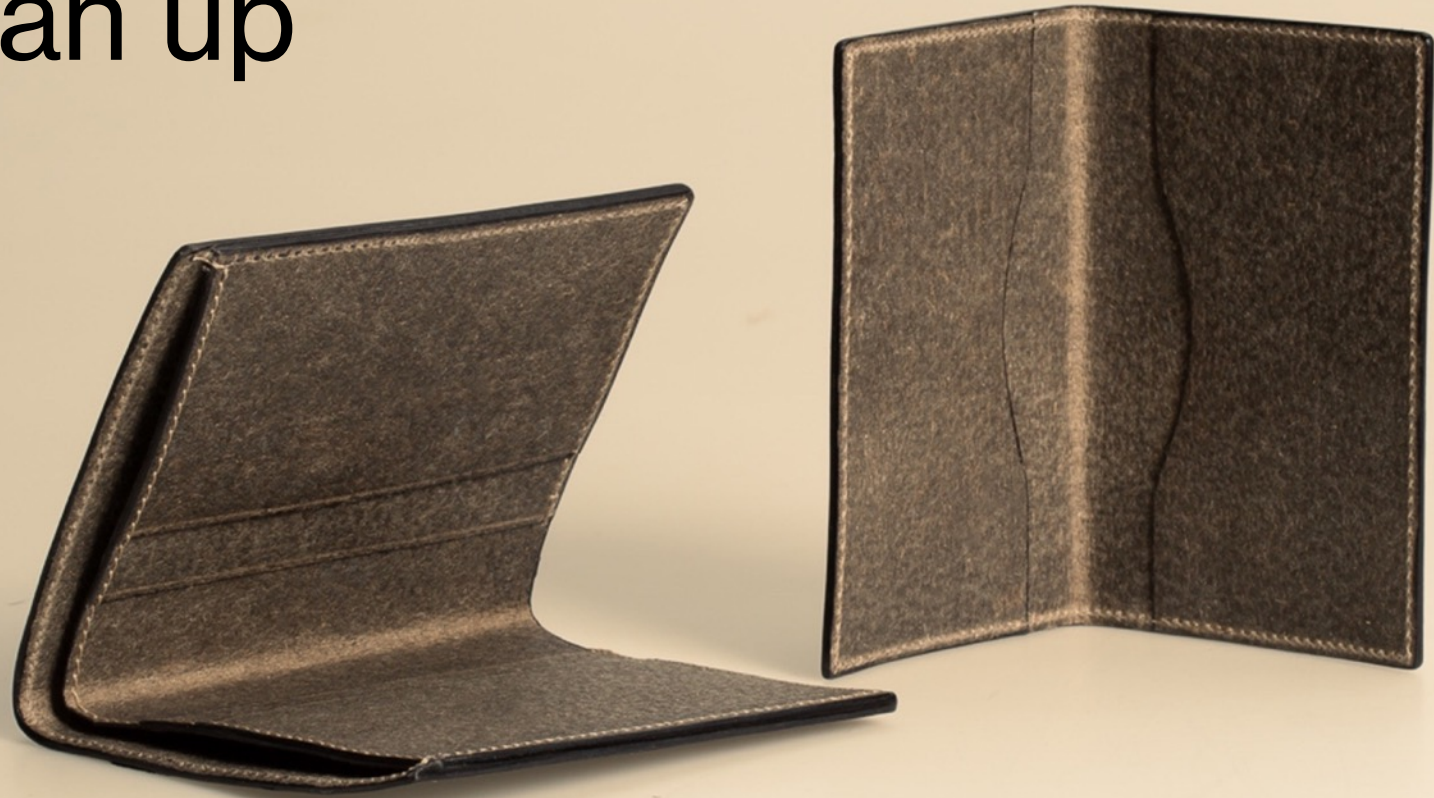

Mikroplastik-Abrieb

A large, sprawling pile of unrecyclable waste, including plastic bags, bottles, and other debris, is shown. A person is walking in the distance, providing a sense of scale. The waste is piled high and covers a large area of land.
